Spending time in green spaces

Spending time in green spaces can improve our mental wellbeing and reduce levels of stress and anxiety.

Research shows that spending time in a green space, or by a body of water, can make us feel happier, and help us get together to socialise, and build better relationships with others.

Walking for health

Walking or wheeling is one of the easiest ways to reduce stress levels, build your stamina, burn excess calories, and improve your heart health.

Walking also makes up an important part of the amount of exercise recommended by the NHS each week (about 5 hours)
