Colposcopy treatment under general anaesthesia

Information for patients, relatives and carers

Introduction

Your last colposcopy appointment shows that your cervix at the neck of the womb has an area of abnormal cells, which require treatment.

The treatment involves removing a small disc-shaped piece of tissue containing these abnormal cells. This procedure will be carried out in the day care unit under a general anaesthesia. This means you will be 'asleep' during the procedure.

What are the benefits of treatment?

This procedure will successfully remove the abnormal cells without the need for further treatment.

Are there any alternatives to this treatment?

Other treatment options include laser ablation and cryotherapy. However, these treatments are not available at our hospitals.

How do I prepare for my admission?

If your operation is in the morning, please do not eat or drink anything after midnight the night before your admission. If your surgery is scheduled for the afternoon, you can have a light breakfast before 07.30 but please do not eat or drink afterwards. You should arrive on the ward on the day of your treatment at the time stated on your admissions letter.

Please note: please contact the colposcopy office or nurse specialist to discuss rescheduling your treatment if you are planning to go on holiday or abroad in the near future.

If you are due to be on your period on the day of your appointment, you may need to reschedule. Please contact the colposcopy office or nurse specialist for further advice.

What are the risks of treatment?

There is a small risk of heavy bleeding and infection following the treatment. Women who have had a large area of cervix treated or those who have had more than one treatment may need to have closer monitoring during pregnancy.

What are the risks of having surgery under general anaesthesia?

Any operation may lead to problems including the following general risks:

- excessive bleeding
- injury to nearby areas (tissue or organs)
- surgical or wound infection
- blood clots in the legs and lungs
- allergic reaction to drugs or anaesthetic
- breathing difficulties during or following the general anaesthetic

The likelihood of complications increases in patients who are overweight or obese, heavy smokers and those with medical problems such as diabetes or chronic lung conditions that are not well controlled.

After the operation

If you are feeling comfortable, and you have managed to eat and drink and there are no complications, you will be able to go home later the same day. But you must be collected and have someone to stay with you overnight.

What should I expect after treatment?

You will be given an information sheet about what to expect after your treatment before you leave the hospital. Please read it carefully. It is important for you to remember:

- You may have some bleeding and/or discharge that will last for two to four weeks.
- You may experience period-like pains for approximately 24 hours. Simple painkillers which can be bought over the counter should help.
- We advise you not to have sexual intercourse for four weeks following the treatment to allow the cervix time to heal.
- Avoid intense sports and activities such as jogging, aerobics or swimming for two weeks.

Follow-up appointments

You will be advised to have a smear test and HPV screen six months after the treatment. You may receive an appointment to attend the clinic for this, or you may be advised to attend your GP.

About 3 to 5 women in every hundred (3% to 5%) require a second treatment, therefore, it is important to attend for the follow up smear test.
